

Scott Wagoner - serves as a Quaker pastor and has been in pastoral ministry over twenty-five years. He has served both in the local church setting and at the conference level. Scott has served as a coach for Upper Room Ministries in their "Companions in Ministry" program and often coaches pastors, both young and old, within his own denomination. He is a member of the International Coaching Federation and has compiled over sixty hours in coaching training. Scott is the founder and President of "Growing Edge Resources" (www.growingedgeresources.com) which serves to provide coaching/consulting services to churches, non-profit groups, and businesses. Scott loves pastors and the work they do and believes the local congregation is a reservoir of untapped potential. His passion is helping pastors see that their best days are still ahead. "Scott believes that coaching is less about receiving instructions from another person and more about creating a space for the coach to ask questions that lead to a realization of what the Spirit is already putting in the other person's heart."
