Thanks to you ...

CBFNC has been able to scholarship 31 outstanding North Carolina divinity students in 2014! CBFNC partners with our four NC divinity schools (Campbell, Duke Baptist House, Gardner-Webb and Wake Forest) to scholarship students and support theological education in state. In addition, CBFNC also scholarships students from NC who attend out-of-state divinity schools. This year, those recipients attend Baptist University of the Americas (BUA) in San Antonio as well as Princeton, Truett (Baylor) and McAfee (Mercer). The 2014 financial gifts provided by congregations and individuals totaled $388,495.

Accomplishing more together

by Linda Jones, CBFNC Missions Coordinator

CBFNC Local Mission Engagement Grants seek to encourage churches to minister beyond their walls and partner with community organizations and other churches, accomplishing far more together than they ever could alone. In the last 3 years, more than 35 grants have been awarded to a myriad of ministry endeavors. Here are just a few:

Food for Days Backpack Ministry is in their second year of ministry, providing weekend meals to 175 children in the Mooresville Graded School and Iredell-Statesville School districts. Nine area churches partner together on this project. John Saunders, associate pastor of First, Mooresville, states, "All are seriously committed to this ministry. There is no turning back!"

Winter Park, Wilmington, has used their grant to work with UNC-W international students. In addition to UNC-W, partners include three other Wilmington churches. Marc and Kim Wyatt initiated this project while on at-home assignment as CBF field personnel. Winter Park is also pursuing the possibility of an intern through CBFNC's Collegiate Ministry program.

The community garden in downtown Clayton, created by Mosaic, Clayton, has become a meeting place for business people having lunch; a gathering spot for VBS and visits from Santa; and even a performance venue for Mosaic's live rendition of "A Charlie Brown Christmas." Partners include four other local churches.

Do you have a great new ministry idea? A Local Mission Engagement Grant could help get it started. A grant application is available at www.cbfnc.org/grant. Forge connections with another organization and other churches to make your great idea come to life! Deadline is November 30th.
